

Treading water, and making due.
In our most basic of actions and needs I think we forget.
We forget ourselves, why we do any of it, and those dearest to us.
Well, if we're not careful...

from the subterranea with love...
all original photos and writing (unless credited)

Magnolia Clutch

Issue #1

"Nothing exists until, or unless it is observed." - William S. Burroughs

If you're really from a place, things speak for themselves. No special spectacle needed. Just navigating the home you know, and making due.

