

What do we sacrifice for convenience?

In our most quiet spaces

In our most private spaces

The Inference of Things

An IR Photography Project

What happens when surveillance is normalised, smart devices are ubiquitous and we trade our privacy for convenience? When our most secret moments are recorded as 'data', who benefits?

The Inference of Things

FL Thomas

What do they hear?