

Human civilization is temporary, nature outlasts us, and beneath all identities everything returns to the same source.

Everything is subject to transformation; what is built, what lives, and what dies are only different states of the same matter.

The Zone

All is one, one is all
David Chvamania

